 157,308,098	Well two things. Florida is too hot and humid at this time of year for our tastes. Also it is possible our sub division will be negatively affected by an Eminent Domain action that will widen SR 528 and add rail service from Cape Canaveral to Orlando. I'm 69, still working in the Middle East and we thought our Florida home would be our last. Not looking good for that. No idea where to move to but looking between TN and NC. 	We cannot afford to retire in MA, when my husband retires. Everything is expensive, even in a small cape home,with real estate taxes over four thousand dollars a year. Vehicle insurance is ridiculous for 3 cars. Only reason we are still here, our young adult daughter can't afford to rent an apartment. When she's in the military, she ll need a place to live. Found a place in NH, that waived her case by signing a 7 year contract for her to obtain a college degree and complete her military career. Only draw back is we wanted a warm climate, year round. If u know of any retirement communities in Fla, that offer the contract, please let us know. Also in the contract, adult child must remain single and cannot have any children. Very reasonable request for all of us. Must have a high standard of morales and ethics.	Wednesday, Jun 29th 1:53PM

I am presently renting a home in Nashua, NH, with a roommate. I own a park model manufactured home in Wells, Me.

When I retire on January 1, I plan to buy an RV, travel the US and Canada for a few years, spending summers in Maine.

I do hope to buy a manufactured home in an over 55 community within the next few years, at which time I shall be a snowbird ... spending winters somewhere along Florida's gulf coast and summers along the Maine coast.

	18 months ago we moved from Connecticut to the waterfront of North Carolina. The drivers were a better quality of life for the money, the mounting state debt in CT and of course the weather. Still working but will travel the southeast to see if this is it or what our other options but we made the right decision to leave when we did.	Thursday, Jun 23rd 4:40AM

What can I say but the daily 3 hours plus commuting, plus out of control taxation. Once every 2 years my city holds an election to "improve schools" through Parcel taxes, every time they hold these during a non major election date which gets few voters, and these always pass. he last 2 of these added $1500 to my annual property tax bill which now approaches $7,000 per year. Combined with almost 10% sales taxes, plus a marginal state tax rate of around 10%, on top of my Federal taxes, I cannot sustain these tax rates being retired. This is why Proposition 13 passed many years ago, seniors were losing their homes due to high taxes. Nothing has improved while the state has guaranteed outrageous pension be left intact, plus every bond measure passes the voters and they will spend a trillion on a train that hardly anyone will use. I see bankruptcy for California meaning taxes will only get worse for those who stay.
