- Decades ago, during family vacations, we determined that we eventually wanted a winter home/retirement home along Florida's Gulf Coast. Fifteen years ago we decided Cape Coral offered a good fit for us. Twelve years ago we purchased a lot on a salt water canal. Currently, we are building a home on the property.

- It is difficult if you are retired and have no expected employment to get into an apartment from a long distance away. Getting the financial necessary documents to them failed by email due to it being personal protected info and automatically encrypted, and their fax/email was not working. I had to make a special trip finally to actually get an apartment in the end, no phone attempts from afar would do it. I do not intend to return anywhere to the north in future.

- Relocating for winter cold weather is more complicated than presented in venues such as this one. Arranging for care of primary residence during absence is costly and difficult. Finding an affordable place to stay in unfamiliar surroundings is also complex. Also have to purchase items at the temporary residence normally have at the primary residence.

- Moved to Mazatlan, Mexico. Difficult to determine where to move to in Mexico. Decided on Mazatlan because the people were very friendly and while it does have tourism it is also a city with all the necessary stores and restaurants. It also relies on fishing, port activities and is the service and supply center for the outlying agricultural areas. Also it can be reached in a day driving from Nogales, AZ.

- I started looking at places in FL on the Gulf side but you can get way more for your money in states other than FL. The crime, the Red Tide, and a state with a reputation of unscrupulous people made me decide FL will no longer be on our list. I am looking for community when I snowbird. We were going to RV as snowbirds but after extensive research found out the industry is completely unregulated and FL had a lot of complaints at the RV parks. We also didn't like the depreciation or the lack of areas for dogs. My friend who RV's full time told me too many people get into RV'ing without any new RV parks available.

- I'm using the place my parents bought in 2004. Would I have made this choice for myself? Probably not. The plan was to sell when my Dad went in a nursing home, but having spent some time here and for what I was offered decided not to for now. Now Mom is in nursing home. It was a progression for them from campina to rentina to buvina.

210,562,307	We started out looking on VRBO but then went directly to the property managers site (if it was listed) to inquire about and /or rent the property.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 9:44PM
210,561,742	My daughter & family live where we bought and spent 12 winters. We had visited them quite frequently and liked Celebration and being close to grandchildren.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 9:16PM
210,561,733	A friend of ours rented her place in Arizona.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 9:23PM
210,561,538	Florida has sinkholes and hurricanes and ungodly heat on the summer. The northeast has bad weather for 5 months. Global warming is affecting both places. Stay away from the low lying coastlines in Florida. Expect to see rising sea levels destroying some of these places.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 9:11PM
210,561,411	Saw it advertised in a sailing magazine	Tuesday, Nov 20th 9:12PM
210,561,097	Decided to start snowbirding with a travel trailer. That way if one location did not work out, we could try another. Joined Good Sam and used them as start point. Also used RV resort/campground reviews.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:55PM
210,561,078	haven't yet, but not sure where to start for nice rental that isn't super expensive	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:59PM
210,561,032	We first settled in Miami Beach, which had great restaurants, lots of cultural activities and events, and good public transportation. But we found that we were happier in a community with people closer to our age, so ended up settling in a different community with more seniors.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:48PM
210,561,030	Diligent and frequent online searches of vacation rental sites	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:55PM
210,561,023	We bought a condo in Fla. 18 years ago for a very reasonable price. We now use it to snowbird. For now we have been retired for 2 years.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:57PM
210,560,918	For the past 4 years, I used VRBO.com or HomeAway.com, but this year I found that I had better luck with airbnb. There is a better selection and lower pricing. On airbnb.com, I was pleased that I could use a drop-down menu under "Home Type" to chose "Entire Place", (which means a self-contained unit where I have the place to myself).	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:55PM
210,560,756	I have always used VRBO, but the difficulty is in finding a dog-friendly place.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 8:42PM
210,559,561	I spent a tremendous amount of time online searching for a place...too much time!	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:54PM
210,559,412	Used Air b n b, HomeAway, VRBO. But you must plan early (like 9 - 12 months) ahead of time.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:47PM
210,558,693	Had to start in August and got a recommendation from a acquaintance.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:14PM
	Adjust to openings at State Park, National Parks and RV Resorts.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:18PM

210,558,680
210,558,328	 We have been traveling to South Carolina for many years and know the state well. Our second home is there now.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 7:01PM
210,557,962	 I am a full time RV'er and snowbird to keep the RV a d me from freezing.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:52PM
210,557,463	 Spent two years traversing the country, going back to all our favorite places. Personal experience with the region.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:33PM
210,557,000	 We haven't retired yet, but have heard that it can be very difficult finding an RV campground in the south during the winter.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:17PM
210,556,832	 We are staying at a JW Marriott in Florida for 2 weeks and a Marriott Vacation Club in SC for 2 Weeks and 3 weeks in San Diego this winter to check things out.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:07PM
210,556,788	 From friends spending the winter in Fl. Will stay at the same complex.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:10PM
210,556,615	 Live 7 months of the year in NC, the other 5 in WI (summer). So we are reverse snowbirds. Had no trouble finding a place in either area.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:56PM
210,556,539	 We stay at military bases most of the time	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:02PM
210,556,273	 Didn't find one.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:55PM
210,556,268	 We had a perfect place - a Park Model trailer in an RV Park in Ft Myers Beach. It was a very inexpensive way to have a place in Florida. But we lost two winters to staying home to care for a sick relative and had to give it up.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:51PM
210,556,114	 Currently researching online	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:50PM
210,555,982	 Friend referrals	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:45PM
210,555,966	 Had to convince ourselves that this was a good place to winter although not as far south as we had originally planned.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:33PM
210,555,496	 A friend who is a realtor	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:36PM
210,555,178	 I have not been a snowbird but anxiously look forward to doing it in next year or two	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:26PM
210,555,157	 networking with friends plus our own research	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:30PM
210,555,131	 Looked for place on the beach that is PET friendly	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:26PM
210,555,069	 Airbag or vbro or homeaway	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:31PM
210,554,783	 I have a pet, which makes it a little more difficult.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:18PM
	 We are going North in the summer. The southeast is a humid frying pan in the summer.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:13PM

210,554,531
210,554,405		We are full-time RVers. My sister has a 14-acre ranch southwest of Tucson with RV sites on it. No-brainer for us. Great place for us to winter. Awful in the summer!	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:07PM
210,554,327		Have a pet	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:10PM
210,554,256		have not found one yet.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:56PM
210,554,250		N/A I haven't snowbirded yet but in searching the internet it seemed easy as long as you do it about a year in advance. Closer to winter you have less choice and higher prices.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 5:03PM
210,553,883		RV Park in Texas.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:58PM
210,553,520		We have looked at both FL coast and central FL and still can't decide. There are pluses and minuses in all three locations.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:48PM
210,553,486		Had to be willing to spend more money due to limited choices	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:46PM
210,553,483		We visited there first to make sure we liked it. 3rd winter in same area.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:51PM
210,553,284		Wanted to go to Arizona this year everything was locked up could not find place to rent started looking in May 2018 for a place for winter 2019. Was looking in Apache Junction area we do have pets too but it is a very tight market there.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:45PM
210,553,110		craigslist and local newspapers; Airbnb	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:37PM
210,552,864		Live in Worcester MA, went to Myrtle Beach, but thinking About Arkansas Fayetteville, also Fairfield Glade, TN	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:30PM
210,552,620		Local media.....	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:26PM
210,552,039		Wide variety of retirement communities in FL.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:17PM
210,551,935		I am considering house sitting via housesitters America.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:15PM
210,551,815		Looked for retirement location over a 3 year period while working full time. Purchased in the Vail AZ area in mid 2015 and moved full time 3/2018. Did search in CO, NM, UT and AZ.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:12PM
210,551,803		We currently live full time in Florida, but are looking to move to South Carolina full time and snowbird in Florida during winter months.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:13PM
210,551,285		Our hobby is ballroom dancing. We can only dance one evening a week in the northeast. Being a snowbird will provide dancing in Florida 5 evenings a week. Oh how wonderful!	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:57PM
210,551,250		Since we are going for 3 to 4 weeks, we've used Airbnb successfully.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 4:00PM
210,551,115		You do get bored spending all day on the beach reading, but it could be worse.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:55PM
		Plus, you'll have to make a minimum time commitment and the longer you stay, generally, the less you pay.	Tuesday, Nov 20th

210,550,975	Plan early. Most places want minimum time commitment and the longer you stay generally the less you pay	3:49PM
210,550,616	Places vary as we are summer "sweat Birds" getting away from the AZ heat. Sometimes Canada, New Zealand in 2019, Colorado mountains etc, any place cooler	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:42PM
210,550,212	We helped our son and family purchase a home in Chula Vista, CA. In exchange for that we now have that as our wintering destination free of costs. We remodeled a section of the house to turn it into our own little sanctuary. Now we can come and go whenever we want, stay as long as we like or not even come if we want to travel to other places we desire to visit. Plus we get to spend time with our grandchild whenever we want.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:30PM
210,550,060	We had rented the same place for 3 years and then the owner sold the place this year in Venice FL. We started out with a 3br, 2bth with pool for $2800, then it went to $3200, then $3600 in the third year. now looking around I am finding 2 br, 1 bth condos for $3200-3400 and if we wanted a house like we had we would have to shell out over $4K. Now dealing with the big snow flakes falling here in New England!	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:25PM
210,549,860	Recommended by a few friends.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:24PM
210,549,761	Haven't done it yet. This will be our first snow-birding season in a rental. We'll spend time to look into income properties and airparks.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:05PM
210,549,176	We rent to ski all Winter. The past 2 years we were in Utah and then Colorado. We are returning to Colorado, same house, this Winter. Our problem is that we have an elderly standard poodle. She's a great traveler but her old age presents problems. At almost 13, we're not sure if she'll be headed back to Colorado. She could die this week, month or prior to our arrival in Salida. Renting w/o a dog would be much easier. We'd love to buy in Salida but it's pricy.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 3:06PM
210,548,683	Reverse snowbirds. Leave Florida in the Summer. Go North to Wisconsin, Michigan	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:55PM
210,548,653	Hard to find a location with retirees of similar values and interests	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:58PM
210,548,624	We bought a place for my parents around 30 years ago in Boca Raton. They have died and we now snowbird there.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:56PM
210,548,593	Just took some initial research and we also spent a couple of years visiting and/or revisiting areas of the US that we were interested in.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:17PM
210,548,552	Haven't started. Retired this year, this winter I will be checking out options for snowbirding.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:54PM
210,548,353	Florida owners do not want to rent for less than 3-4 months. Don't want to stay that long. Makes it difficult for us to find a decent place for reasonable rates	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:49PM
210,548,329	We moved to FL for work 36 years ago with plans to retire further north. We purchased a home in SC 5 years ago, sooner than planned. We had vacationed in the area for 25 years. The climate and over-55 community did not suit. We sold that, are living full time in FL again, and are building a new home in NC after researching various places in NC.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:44PM
210,548,249	Haven't found any particular place but will probably move around	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:41PM
210,548,205	Had two cats so that limited the possible rentals. Finally we bought.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:40PM
210,547,862	Looked for a condo in Florida, found one. Use it about 6 months out of the year. Go to New Mexico for about 6 weeks during the summer. Texas heat in summer is brutal. Texas winters are cold too.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:41PM
210,547,831	We usually use our timeshare for our stay. However, at times we have rented privately through VRBO or the like.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:38PM

210,547,643	 Bought a FL condo 6 years before retiring, after 3 years sold it and bought a real house.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:15PM
210,547,597	 We found a place in Florida and own the home. However, the political situation is far more conservative for us than we want and the environmental issues like red tide have ruined our experience and home value and desire to remain in Florida in the future.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:21PM
210,547,375	 We have one home now -- we moved from the northeast to Arizona. We spend two to three months traveling to get out of the summer heat!  39 I use the internet and call realtors I find there.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:33PM Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:28PM
210,547,310	 Book early	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:26PM
210,547,302	 Referral from friends/ relatives	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:24PM
210,547,295	 Wanted to rent but because we have cats no one would rent to us. We ended up buying a mobile home in an 55+ park. We didn't want to spend a lot of money on a new home in case we didn't like it so we bought an older home. We have been going back and forth now for ten years.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:18PM
210,547,292	 We found an awesome resort in Hemet Ca for our winter hangout.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:20PM
210,547,268	 We decided to buy an RV to live in during the winter months and then store it over the summer.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:23PM
210,547,039	 we own a place in South Carolina, we rent a place in Florida, and we spend time at a resort in the Dominican Republic	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:19PM
210,546,977	 Most VBRO homeowners would like to rent their homes for a period of at least three months during the Winter season. It becomes very difficult to find properties that will rent for two months and almost impossible to find one of a single month.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:17PM
210,546,814	 Renting has become too popular with snowbirds. Local folks seem to resent temp residents more and more. Some Florida areas now are charging the hotel tax.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:14PM
210,546,654	 We use our timeshare in Hawaii for 2-3 weeks each winter. And we use a timeshare in the Colorado mountains in August or Sept to escape the heat.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:09PM
210,546,581	 Many places only rent week to week. We needed a place for 3 1/2 months while we explored around Florida.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:07PM
210,546,472	 purchased 'time' (points) with Marriott - use this option to stay at our favorite resort in MB, SC. No hassles for location, no individual investment for condo - just maintenance fee	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:07PM
210,546,395	 Very difficult to find a pet friendly/allowable rental	Tuesday, Nov 20th 2:07PM
210,546,384	 Because arthritis is primarily aggravated by barometric pressure changes, I limited my search to areas with minimal pressure changes: Southern Arizona, extreme southern Cali, Hawaii, and the Florida Keys. Because it's easier to breath in low humidity, that eliminated the Keys and Hawaii. The much higher cost of living in the Keys, Hawaii and Cali meant southern Arizona was my obvious choice. And Tucson is much less expensive and more laid back than the Phoenix area, so I chose Tucson. Very happy with my decision! Should have moved here decades ago! And 100 degrees in the summer in Tucson is more comfortable than 85 degrees in the Midwest! I don't know whether I hate going back to visit Wisconsin more in January or August. Both times are bad. I'll take Arizona year-round for sure over either winter or summer in the upper Midwest!	Tuesday, Nov 20th 6:19AM

 210,538,134	During the last 4 years of our working years, we vacationed in several locations specifically looking for a new place we could call home. Nothing checked out all the boxes on our list. Throughout the last fifteen years we have always vacationed in the Cancun, MX region. We love Mexico and began to entertain the idea of retiring in a foreign country. There was so many details to research and it was very time consuming. In the end, we chose a very nice new secure development. Our personally designed home is almost ready to begin construction. We will leave in January to oversee this project. We are very excited and look forward to when we can move in and get settled again.	Tuesday, Nov 20th 10:49AM

We were looking for a place with "dog friendly" beaches, that is how we found Fort Myers, FL for our winter get away.

We have been snowbirds for 8 years and discovered finding short term rentals ((one month) are hard but eventually we have each year through VRBO. there is a window of time you have to hit at the right week. You can't book too early because landlords need to hear back from last year renters who have first dibs, you can't wait too long then everything is taken very quickly. We don't want the same city each year while we look for a retirement spot so we haven't been return renters but through persistence and waiting lists we have found places 6 months in advance but nothing after that. We have rented on both the east and west coasts but not the interior which may be easier to find rentals, but haven't tried.

Renting from the same people every year. They know us and we know them, no problem in our situation.
